Love Story

A Helping Hand at Just the Right Time

Cartoon depiction of story

A woman in our community found herself in an unexpected and stressful situation. She had older furniture she wanted to donate, but with her new living room furniture arriving sooner than expected, she needed help getting it out quickly.

Feeling overwhelmed and unsure what to do, she reached out to Love Inc. Love Inc was able to provide transportation and help remove the furniture just in time for her new set to arrive. What may have seemed like a simple task was, for her, a tremendous burden lifted.

But at Love Inc., we believe people are more than the problems they are facing. As the furniture was taken care of, she had an opportunity to share what was on her heart. She welcomed the offer to pray together, and our team was able to encourage her through a stressful moment.

We also offered to connect her with a local partner church where she could find fellowship, encouragement, and a community to walk alongside her. Sometimes helping someone doesn't require a huge solution. Sometimes it simply means showing up, lending a helping hand, lifting a burden, and reminding someone they are not alone.

At Love Inc, we want every person we serve to know they are seen, valued, and cared for—not as a problem to be solved, but as a person who matters.

Love Story

A Little Help, A New Beginning

A single father and his 8-year-old daughter came to Love Inc during a difficult season. With little to no income, they needed beds and gas so he could search for work.

Love Inc took the time to listen, remind him that he wasn't alone, and provide practical help—a bed for both him and his daughter, along with a gas voucher to help him get to job interviews and pursue employment.

A week later, he called with wonderful news: he had found a job!

He shared how grateful he was for the gas assistance, which gave him the opportunity to look for work when he needed it most. He also expressed deep gratitude for the kindness shown to him and his daughter during a challenging time.

Before the conversation ended, he welcomed the opportunity to pray with Love Inc alongside his daughter.

What began with a simple request for a bed and gas became an opportunity to offer hope, encouragement, and prayer—and to remind a father and daughter that they were seen, valued, and not alone.

At Love Inc, we believe people are more than the problems they face.

We meet practical needs while building relationships that point people toward Jesus.
